DESHA'S SPEECH IS FINE FEATURE

Kahula, mother; J. K. Kaohi, brother; Mrs. Emmaline Saffray, Mrs. Emily Campbell, Mrs. Lizzie Mendola, Miss Emma Kaohi, nieces; Joseph K. Kaohi, Jr.; Master Benjamin Kaohi, Master William Kaohi, Master Edward Kaohi, nephews.

Desha Makes Splendid Speech
Senator Stephen L. Desha made by all odds the most striking address of the day, in the opinion of those of the audience who understand both English and Hawaiian. Long famous as "Hawaii's silver-tongued orator" in the native language, his address yesterday was rich with the eloquence, the sympathy and the fire which are characteristic of his public utterances.

He pointed out that the Hawaiians lost with the Aztec; went calmly into the face of danger, knowing their steamer might be sunk by a German submarine, and that they have died as Americans should die in warfare—bravely and unflinchingly. As he dwelt with sympathy on the loss of the families of these young men many Hawaiians were moved to open emotion. He paid a striking tribute to the flag and declared that the highest form of patriotism is the doing of duty, fearlessly and intelligently.

Music and Oratory Mingle
Following the playing of "Old Hundred" and the dirge from "Saul" by the Hawaiian band, President Chillingworth of the senate told of the occasion that had led to the gathering and the holding of the memorial services. He paid brief but glowing tribute to the memory of the martyrs of the Aztec.

The rendering of "Hail Columbia," "Hawaii Ponoi" and the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Normal school students was especially beautiful, impressive and appropriate.

Noble Sentiments Rouse Patriotism
Full of the spirit of patriotism, insistence on the rights of humanity, condemnation of a conduct that is murder and not war, touched with delicate and tender sentiment for those whose lives went out in the maelstrom of sea into which they were thrown by the sinking of the Aztec when she had been torpedoed, was the oration of the day delivered by Representative Lorin Andrews.

Andrews first dwelt on the beauty of the American flag, the meaning of their flags to other nations, the great beauty, the nobility of the sentiments the Star Spangled Banner holds for the native born or adopted citizen of the United States, how it embraces the best of all sentiments that other banners may represent to other nations.

With such a flag, standing for and representing such principles and ideal in the face of murder masquerading as war, fighting innocent women and children and non-combatants, attacking all humanity there was nothing to do but rise and fight until tyranny should be banished from the world, he declared. Americans must fight for their flag, their land, their liberty, their wives, their families and for their God was his closing peroration.

Eulogy is Oratorical Marvel
The oration of Senator Desha was more in line of a eulogy of the five drowned Hawaiian heroes of the Aztec. It also was full of patriotic thought and sentiment. The modulation of his voice, his gestures, his expression, the vibration of his words, gave to those of his audience who did not understand the Hawaiian tongue at least some idea of what Senator Desha was saying.

Later he told something of each of the drowned Hawaiians, and turning to members of the families of the dead men he had words of sympathy and condolence for them. Senator Desha's speech was a marvel of eloquence and of oratory. It thrilled his hearers who understood Hawaiian and made those who did not wish for a knowledge of tongues.

The singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" was a fitting finale to the meeting which dispersed after the benediction pronounced by Rev. H. H. Parker.

The order of service was as follows:
1. Anthem, Hawaiian band.
2. Introductory remarks, Hon. Chas. F. Chillingworth, president of the senate.

3. Selection, "Hail Columbia," Normal school.

4. Invocation, Rev. L. B. Kaumehiwa, chaplain, house of representatives.

5. Selection, "Recessional," Normal school.

6. Scripture and prayer, Rev. Akalo Akana, chaplain of the senate.

7. Selection, Hawaiian band.

8. Oration, Representative Lorin Andrews.

9. Selection, "Hawaii Ponoi," Normal school.

10. Oration, Senator S. L. Desha.

11. Selection, "The Star Spangled Banner," Normal school and audience.

12. The Lord's prayer and benediction, Rev. H. H. Parker, pastor, Kawahao church.

APPEALS TO GERMAN STRIKERS TO GO TO WORK

AMSTERDAM, April 23.—The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung in a formal appeal to the people of Germany, implores them not to "give up all they have won in this war for a mouthful of bread."

In speaking of the grave danger which the growing menace of the strike constitutes to the nation as a whole in the present crisis, the journal declares that "we have but to hold on for a little time longer to attain victory. America has joined the ranks of our foes," continues the article, "because the people of that country have found out that Great Britain is beaten hopelessly and that unless they go to the assistance of the English they can never gain back the money England and England's allies owe them for munitions they have sold during the last two years."
